Preface

This inaugural *Hate Incident Report*¹ produced by the LA County Commission on Human Relations is based on the reporting of hate incidents documented for the years 2022 and 2023. Hate Incident data are collected alongside hate crime data for our annual Hate Crime Report. This report follows the same methodology² used in the collection and analysis for our Hate Crime Report.

Our Commission has collected and reported on hate crime data since 1980 with the aim to document, prevent, and respond to hate. Hate crimes are violations of state and federal laws. Both hate crimes and hate incidents are serious breaches of international human rights standards. A central goal of the Hate Crime Report and this Hate Incident Report is to raise awareness about these human rights violations. Tracking hate crimes and incidents is vital to understanding and combating human rights violations in Los Angeles County.

What is a Hate Incident?

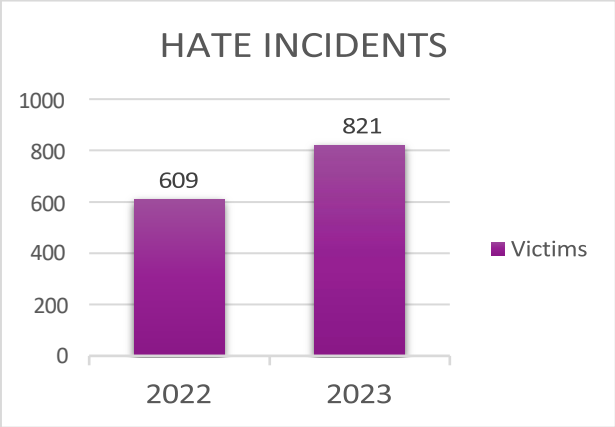

Hate incidents are noncriminal acts motivated by prejudice or bias against a person or group’s actual or perceived identity(ies). Hate incidents can include non-criminal verbal abuse, harassment, and display of offensive materials.

Perpetrators may be motivated by bias on the basis of race, ethnicity, national origin, sexual orientation, religion, disability, or gender, including gender identity. Furthermore, there must be an identifiable victim or group of victims who are intended to be frightened, intimidated, or harmed by the speech or action.

In the United States hate speech is not necessarily a crime. It is a criminal offense when the perpetrator threatens violence with spoken or written words against a specific person or group. Hate speech may also be criminal if it is used against the same person or group of persons in a repeated pattern, which may constitute criminal harassment or stalking. This is an example of how tracking and documenting hate incidents can provide the basis for a criminal case.
