

Walter Tucker IV, M.A.
Executive Advisor
Executive Division
Internal Services Department

Walter Tucker IV is from Compton, California. He began working in public service during high school as a lifeguard for the city of Culver City. He earned his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of California Riverside, and UCLA, respectively. He previously taught at Howard University and Indiana University in the areas of sociology and African American Studies. He is currently pursuing a doctorate in public administration (DPA) at California Baptist University.

He began working for the County of Los Angeles in 2017. He has worked in several departments, including the Department of Mental Health, LA Superior Court, and the Department of Public Social Services; in the latter department, he participated in the County's Management Fellows Program. Currently, Walter serves as the Executive Advisor of the Internal Services Department (ISD). In addition to his duties as the Productivity Manager for the department, his work focuses on strategic planning initiatives, legislative affairs, and special projects. He previously served as the Program Manager for the Delete the Divide initiative, which offers job opportunities, digital skills training, IT certificates, and free laptops to LA County residents in underserved communities.

Walter is also a member of several professional organizations, including the Los Angeles County African American Employees Association, the Los Angeles County Management Council, and Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc. When he is not working, Walter enjoys distance running, having participated in five LA marathons. He also is an avid traveler, having been to over 30 countries.

Walter is happy to serve as Productivity Manager for ISD and seeks to support and empower employees in any way that he can.
