WOMEN'S CAUCUS

January 22, 2024 Virtual Meeting Summary

1. Welcome & Introductions – Shary Alonzo welcomed the members and led introductions.

2. Executive Director/Staff Report

- C. Barrit shared that Luckie Alexander and Danielle Campbell were elected as Commission on HIV (COH) co-chairs for the 2024 year. She noted Luckie had been on a leave of absence but has returned. Joe Green will continue to serve as Co-Chair Pro Tem to assist with the transition of Luckie reintegrating into his position as co-chair.
- The Executive Committee will be reviewing the first draft of the 2023 COH Annual Report on Thursday, January 25th and providing feedback. Caucus members can view the report online in the Executive Committee meeting packet (found here). The report will also be reviewed during the February 8th COH meeting.
- C. Barrit announced that Lizette Martinez, COH staff, will be taking the role of lead staff for the Women's Caucus. She thanked Dawn McClendon for her leadership and dedication supporting the caucus over the past few years.

3. Co-Chairs Report

- 2024 Co-Chairs Open Nominations & Elections
 - D. McClendon announced the group that Dr. Mikhaela Cielo, Shary Alonzo, Arlene Frames and Robyn Barkins were nominated to serve as co-chairs for 2024. M. Cielo, S. Alonzo and A. Frames accepted their nominations and R. Barkins respectfully declined noting a conflict with previous commitments. She reminded the group that at least one co-chair needed to be a current COH member.
 - The caucus held their elections and re-elected both M. Cielo and S. Alonzo as 2024 co-chairs.
- Aging Caucus Collaboration
 - K. Donnelly and P. Nash, Aging Caucus Co-Chairs, reached out to the caucus to ask how the Aging Caucus can support the Women's Caucus, particularly older women. K. Donnelly and P. Nash suggested supporting awareness events or pushing for women-centered HIV care and/or prevention services and research/data. P. Nash noted the goal is to ensure women are often not represented in HIV care and research the goal is to push for inclusion to address their specific needs.

- L. Conolly, Consumer Caucus co-chair, noted that the Consumer Caucus would also like to work on advocating for and/or promoting services and resources geared toward women living with HIV.
- P. Zamudio asked if there was a specific service category that the Aging Caucus had in mind when it came to the needs of older women. What is missing in medical or social services to address the needs of women/older women? She noted advances in HIV care have extended the lives of people living with HIV and may face health issues not related to but complicated by HIV. She also noted women serving as caregivers, particularly older women of color continuing to serve as caregivers for grandchildren and the added stress it brings aside from managing their HIV care.
- A. de Lange noted that she is noticing transportation funding being eliminated and suggested funding for gas cards or promotion of carpooling to women's and social events.
- A. Frames reiterated the need for transportation, as well as childcare, for women's and social events. She also called for social gatherings that aim to heal the whole person and not focused solely on medical needs.
- S. Alonzo recognized that social events are not just for socializing but also for building community.
- P. Zamudio commented that DHSP provides funding to several agencies for transportation services and that funding is not being eliminated. She did note that transportation services must follow Ryan White Program (RWP) requirements and can only be used for medical and supportive services such as mental health appts or transportation to a food bank. While DHSP agrees social connectedness is very important, RWP funds cannot be used for transportation for social services. P. Zamudio added that DHSP can send the recommendation to the Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) but the HIV community should also advocate for changing guidelines.
- S. Alonzo would like to see more data or information on the impact of HIV medication on women as they age, particularly as they go through perimenopause and menopause.
- E. Silveyra recommended focusing on in-home support services. She noted home health and hospice services are very limited and primarily geared toward end of life. She noted services for adults aged 65 years and older is extremely limited, but the need is very high and noted many older populations need assistance with basic needs and often face social isolation. E. Silveyra commented that aging populations need help with wound care, personal care, prepped meals geared toward their medical needs (such as diabetes).

4. Discussion

- DHSP Educational Materials Re: Preventing HIV Transmission During Pregnancy and Infant Feeding | REVIEW & FEEDBACK
 - DHSP Staff, Dr. Rebecca Cohen (and team), reached out to the Women's Caucus to provide feedback on their new Preventing HIV Transmission During Pregnancy and Infant Feeding educational materials. Dr. Cohen was not in attendance and the group requested she or a member of her staff return to present the materials at their next meeting.
 - Caucus members will share educational materials with their providers and will be prepared to provide feedback at the next meeting.
- 2024 Workplan | PLANNING – The caucus discussed activities for their 2024 workplan. The 2023 workplan was used as a starting point for planning. See meeting packet for more details. S. Alonzo recommended including a resource sharing presentation to inform participants of all of the services that are available to them. L. Conolly suggested hosting a small event in honor of National Women and Girls HIV Awareness Day in March.
 - Update 2019 recommendations re: women-centered programming & services
 - Virtual Lunch & Learns – the group discussed structuring lunch and learn sessions to include focus on an explanation of the topic followed by opportunities to address challenges or barriers. It was suggested to have one in-person lunch and learn. Suggested lunch and learn topics include the following:
 - Social isolation and loneliness
 - Intersectionality of women living with multiple marginalized identities and the impact that it has on confidence/self-esteem
 - Aging and cognition
 - Programming for seniors – food delivery, virtual trivia classes to improve memory/cognition, phone calls to help with social isolation, movement classes (e.g., Zumba Gold)
 - Impact of HIV/HIV medications on menopause and bio-identical hormone replacement during menopause
 - Education and assistance on navigating public benefits (e.g., in home support services, Medi-Cal, Social Security, disability, food stamps, retirement, etc.)
 - How to read and interpret medical labs
 - How HIV medication works in the body to aid in medication adherence
 - Resource roundtable – sharing of existing community resources
 - Sharing free and/or low-cost activities for women

- Life insurance for people living with HIV and the importance of durable power attorneys
- Free college
- Complimentary therapies (e.g., acupuncture, message, chiropractic care, etc.)
- Importance of routine preventative medicine (e.g., pap smears, colonoscopy, dental visits, etc.)
- Navigating technology (e.g., computer basics, attending virtual meetings, telehealth, etc.)
- Aging Caucus Collaboration – see above

5. Meeting Recap and Next Meeting Agenda

- Co-chairs will plan first lunch and learn event for March
- Commission staff will revise 2024 workplan to reflect discussed recommendations
- F. Valdes suggested adding strategies for outreaching to women of color with HIV that have been out of care
- Next virtual meeting will be Monday, April 15th from 2pm-4pm and will include a recap of the March lunch and learn

6. Public Comment and Announcements

- Jazmin Rojano invited interested participants to attend the Los Angeles Women's Task Force Monthly meetings held virtually every third Tuesday of the month at 9:30am. Join via Zoom at <https://uclahs.zoom.us/j/94877553781>. The group will be planning events including the 19th Annual Women's Treatment Summit and the 2nd Annual Women's Wellness Summit and is requesting assistance and feedback.
- Adjournment

7. Adjournment – the meeting was adjourned by S. Alonzo at 4:00pm

Recent LAC Trends in Perinatal HIV

Number of infants with perinatal HIV exposure and perinatally acquired HIV, LAC 2006-2023 (YTD)

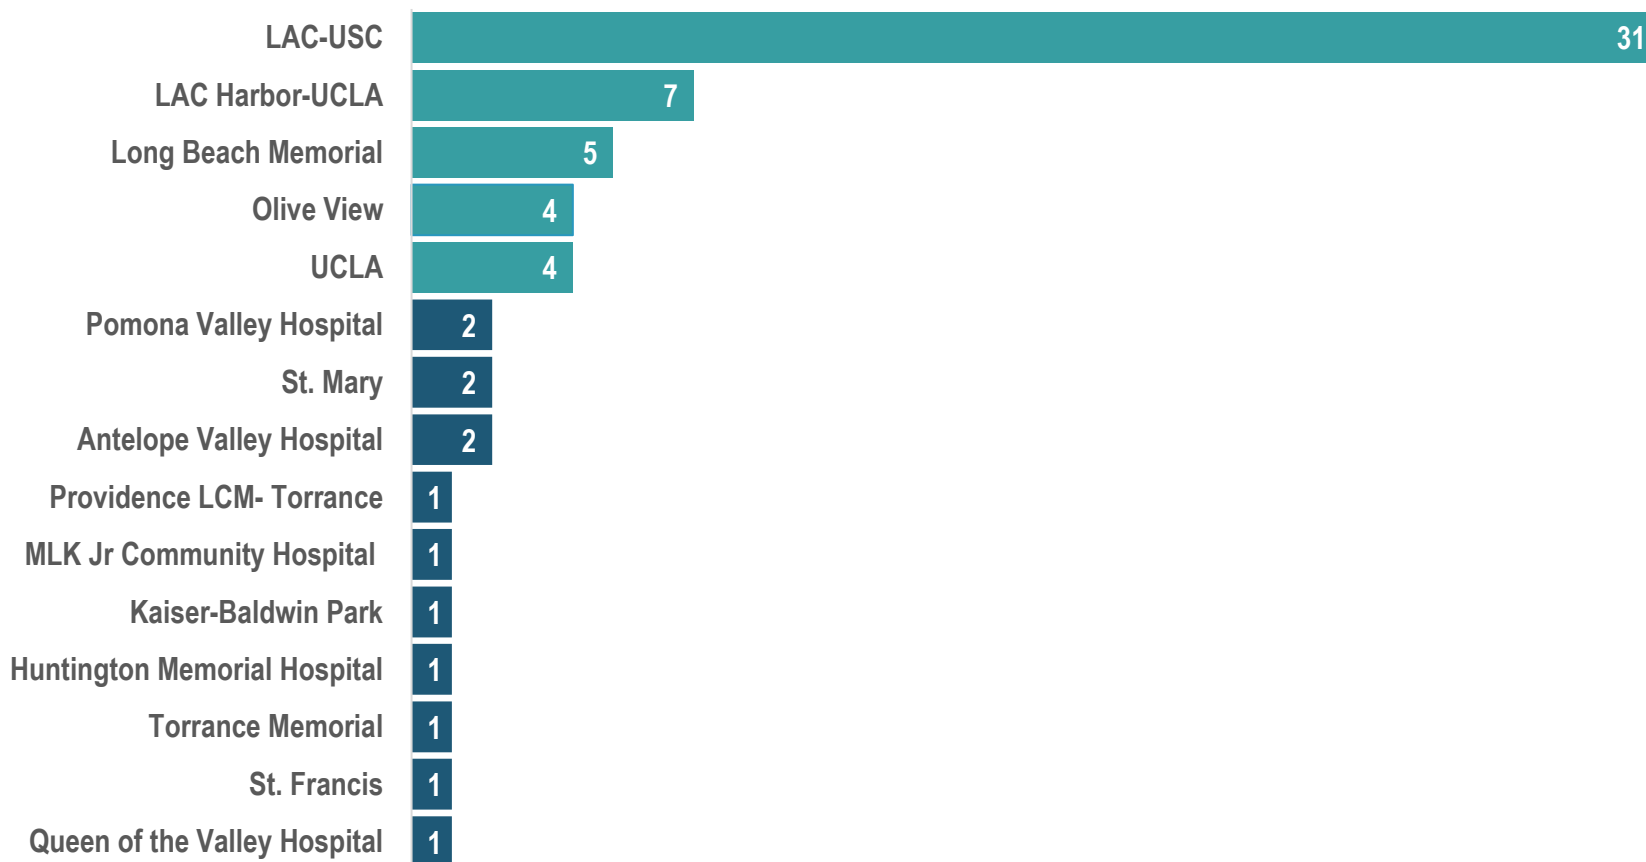

1 Due to reporting delay, 2021 and 2022 HIV data are provisional as indicated by the patterned bar and dashed line.

2 The number of infants with perinatally acquired HIV includes perinatal transmissions among babies born and/or diagnosed in LAC for a given birth year. The number of infants with perinatal HIV exposure was derived from 7 pediatric HIV-specialty sites which serve over 90% of the HIV-exposed children and infected children seeking HIV evaluation and care in Los Angeles County as well as a birth registry match provided by the California Department of Public Health. This is an underestimate of the total number of infants with perinatal HIV exposure in the County since HIV exposure reporting is not mandated.

Number of Perinatally Exposed Infants Born per Facility, 2023 Year-to-Date (N=64)

Most births in 2023 were at birthing hospital specialty sites.

Caring for Pregnant People with HIV Checklist

For Hospital Leadership

PREPARE Your Hospital to Care for Pregnant Patients with HIV

- HIV testing ready for STAT implementation in all spaces where pregnant people in labor are assessed
 - HIV testing must have a turnaround time within 1 hour
 - Acceptable Test Types
 - Instrument, lab-based testing: HIV Antibody/Antigen Test
 - Label and handle as STAT
 - Single test, point-of-care testing
 - Recommended tests: INSTI, Determine, or SureCheck
 - Requires appropriate training for staff and regular quality assurance
 - If positive, counsel the patient on a preliminary positive result and initiate HIV interventions while sending confirmatory testing to sent to the lab (see below)
- Protocols developed for reporting positive HIV test results
 - Protocol must be in place to ensure immediate communication to both OB and NICU teams
 - All positive results must be communicated within 1 hour of test initiation
- Ensure HIV Medications are on the Formulary and in Stock
 - The following must be on the formulary:
 - IV Zidovudine (Adult and Neonatal)
 - PO Nevirapine 150mg/mL solution (Adult)
 - PO Zidovudine 10mg/mL solution (Neonatal)
 - PO Nevirapine 150mg/mL solution (Neonatal)
 - PO Lamivudine 10mg/mL solution (Neonatal)
 - Consider also PO Raltegravir powder (Neonatal)

OPH may indicate the need for additional medications to have in stock on a case-by-case basis.

AT ADMISSION: For Patients with Unknown HIV Status, Limited Prenatal Care, or Self-Disclosed HIV Status with Limited HIV Care

- Perform STAT HIV Testing using an acceptable test type
 - Communicate test results to OB and Neonatal teams within 1 hour of test initiation
- If the result of the expedited HIV test for the patient in labor is reactive, operate under assumption it is a true positive.
 - Discuss the meaning of the preliminary positive HIV test result.
 - Do not delay prophylaxis while awaiting the results of confirmatory serologic testing.
 - Collaborate with Pediatric Infectious Diseases and HIV specialists.
 - If not available in-house, immediately call UCSF Perinatal Clinical Provider Hotline for emergency, 24-hour individualized clinical advice for providers, at 888-448-6765
- Send the following STAT lab tests:
 - HIV Antibody/Agilent test (if not already done)
 - CD4 count
 - HIV RNA (quantitative, aka the viral load)
 - HIV genotype
 - Supply and other STD screening
- Call the OHP Linkage and Reengagement Program Provider Line for assistance within 24 hours.
 - Oversee planning and linkage (navigation) provided
- Inform the birth parent that untreated HIV can be transmitted through breast milk and that breastfeeding is contraindicated until they are confirmed to be HIV negative.
 - Refer the birth parent to a lactation specialist to assist with education and support for maintenance of breastmilk milk supply, if desired, so breastfeeding may be initiated if HIV infection is excluded.
- Provide IV AZT during labor and delivery
 - Contact the UCSF Perinatal Clinical Provider Hotline for dosing support at: 888-448-6765

Perinatal HIV Specialty Centers Guide

Providers Across Los Angeles County

The County of Los Angeles, Department of Public Health, Division of HIV and STD Programs (DHSP) recommends all pregnant people with HIV be referred to medical centers with coordinated expertise in perinatal and pediatric HIV care. Please see the listings below for referral information to these specialty sites.

Could your patient benefit from extra assistance?

Please contact the CHSP Linkage and Reengagement Program (LRP) at (213) 539-4288. Our team of a social worker and community health worker can provide navigation and transportation assistance for patients who need extra support in linking and staying in care.

Routine Prenatal HIV and STD Testing Test Guidance and Referral Resources

About Universal HIV Screening and Testing in Pregnancy

- All HIV testing must be voluntary and no person should be tested without their knowledge.
- No additional process or written documentation of informed consent beyond what is required for other routine prenatal tests is required for HIV testing.
- For patients who test negative and either request HIV pre-exposure prophylaxis (PrEP) or may be at elevated risk of HIV acquisition during pregnancy, discuss and offer PrEP. PrEP is not contraindicated during pregnancy or while breastfeeding an infant.
- Clinicians should refer patients who test positive for HIV to a Perinatal HIV Specialty program (see "Perinatal HIV Specialty Centers Guide") for initiation of antiretroviral therapy (ART) and coordination with a high-risk OB team.
- When a patient presents with symptoms suggestive of acute HIV infection, the clinician should perform an HIV test immediately, even if a previous HIV screening test result during the current pregnancy was non-reactive.
 - For evaluation of acute HIV, obtain a plasma HIV RNA test in conjunction with an HIV antigen/antibody combination immunoassay.

How to Test for HIV and Common STDs:

HIV Test	Instrumented, lab-based 4th generation combined ANTIGEN/ANTIBODY screen preferred Repeat test in 3rd trimester if at elevated risk	Gonorrhea (GC) - Test from urine and/or vaginal/cervical site - Strongly consider self-collected rectal and vaginal swabs for NAAT testing
Syphilis	Order TREPONEMAL TEST (TP-PA, EIA, CIA) - If positive, NON-TREPONEMAL TEST (RPR or VDRL) should be sent as reflex test or by provider order - Repeat test in 3rd trimester and at delivery	Chlamydia (CT) - Test from urine and/or vaginal/cervical site - Strongly consider self-collected rectal swabs for NAAT testing - If positive, order test of cure 4 weeks after treatment and retest within 3 months

TP-PA+ Treponema pallidum particle agglutination assay; EIA=enzyme immunoassay; CIA=chemiluminescence immunoassay; NAAT=nucleic acid amplification testing

LOS ANGELES COUNTY STD SCREENING RECOMMENDATIONS 2022

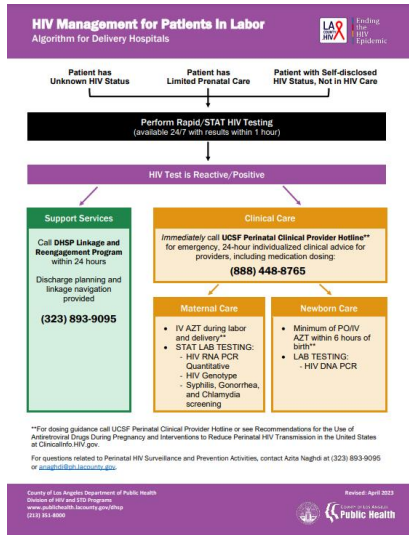

The following recommendations are based on guidance for STD screening from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, Clinical Practice Guidelines, Test Force Infectious Disease Society of America, and the California Department of Public Health (CDPH) Clinical Practice Guidelines and Los Angeles County (LAC) Department of Public Health/Division of HIV & STD Programs. In addition to the information provided, screening should be based on risk factors, test sensitivity and specificity of specific STDs in the particular clinical setting. All women diagnosed with chlamydia (CT), gonorrhea (GC), or trichomonos should be advised for repeat detection at 3 months after treatment. Men diagnosed with chlamydia or gonorrhea should also be advised to repeat at 3 months. Screening for HIV should be performed separately from the other STDs. For more information, see the "Perinatal HIV Specialty Centers Guide".

Population	STD Screening Recommendations	Frequency	Comments
Women
Women < 18 years of age¹	CT and GC (urine, vaginal, or anal) Syphilis HIV (if at elevated risk) All women at least once, repeat according to risk	Annually At least annual exam ² All women at least once, repeat according to risk	Consider screening more frequently for those at increased risk
Women 18 years of age and older³	No routine screening for CT and GC Syphilis HIV CT and GC (urine, vaginal, or anal) HIV (if at elevated risk) Hepatitis B Surface Antigen (HBsAg)	Annually All women 18-44 years at least once All women 18 years of age at least once, repeat according to risk First trimester First trimester	Engage in PrEP counseling recommended for women with risk factors. See Section 4. Repeat screening in 3rd trimester if at increased risk
Pregnant women⁴	Syphilis	First trimester, third trimester (28-32 weeks) at delivery	Emergency Department (ED) providers recommended to screen for syphilis in the ED prior to delivery if documented test results in pregnancy are unavailable. Adult screened facilities recommended to screen all pregnant women or those who may become pregnant even if not in care to reduce time as possible.
HIV-positive women⁵	CT and GC (urine, vaginal, or anal) HIV (if at elevated risk) Syphilis Hepatitis B Surface Antigen (HBsAg) Hepatitis C	Annually (if exposed) Annually (if exposed) Annually Annually First test	Repeat screening more frequently for those at increased risk
Men
Men < 18 years of age¹	No routine screening for STDs HIV (if at elevated risk)	At least 18-44 years of age at least once, repeat according to risk	Engage in PrEP counseling recommended for men with risk factors. See Section 4.
HIV-positive men⁵	CT and GC (urine) HIV (if at elevated risk) Syphilis Hepatitis B Surface Antigen (HBsAg) Hepatitis C	Annually or more frequently if high-risk behavior Annually or more frequently if high-risk behavior HIV (if at elevated risk) Hepatitis B Surface Antigen (HBsAg) Hepatitis C	MSM only. In patients who understand receptive and insertive roles, consider oral and rectal screening in addition to, not for men who have sex with men (MSM) only a rectal, anal, and urine specimen.

Perinatal HIV Specialty Center Requirements For Healthcare Administrators and Perinatal Providers

HIV infection is a complex disease that affects all organ systems. Therefore, all patients with HIV must be referred to centers with expertise in treating HIV. This high level of clinical expertise is necessary due to the increased complexity of the management of HIV care, specifically during pregnancy and neonatal care.

A Perinatal Specialized HIV Care Center includes the following minimum requirements:

A Multidisciplinary Care Model that includes the following:

- Obstetricians with expertise in Maternal-Fetal Medicine and the care of pregnant people with HIV, and gynecologists with knowledge of HIV-related gynecologic abnormalities.
- Adult and Pediatric Infectious Disease physicians with expertise in HIV care who are available 24 hours a day for consultation and follow-up.
- Pediatric HIV Care that is part of the state-approved California Children's Services HIV Specialty Care Centers (Infectious Disease and Immunology Centers).
- Case Managers (social workers or other care management professionals) to ensure coordination of services, access to free or affordable outpatient HIV medications, and active linkages to specialized perinatal/pediatric HIV outpatient services and community resources, including but not limited to housing services, mental health providers, transportation, and drug and alcohol treatment programs as needed.
- Culturally competent and bilingual staff as needed.

A Medical Center with the following resources in place:

- Access to state-of-the-art HIV-specific laboratory testing, including HIV DNA and RNA PCR monitoring, diagnostic and resistance testing.
- A Level III nursery.
- On-site pharmacy with 24-hour availability for all antiretroviral agents necessary for HIV prophylaxis during pregnancy, in labor, at delivery and postpartum for the parent and neonate as well as other medications necessary to treat acute HIV complications and opportunistic infections.
- Access to the State AIDS Drug Assistance Program (ADAP) for outpatient medication coverage.
- Fully developed and distributed protocols for routine and urgent implementation of preventative perinatal HIV interventions as outlined in DHHS Guidelines and updated annually.

Preventing HIV Transmission During Pregnancy and Infant Feeding

Frequently Asked Questions

What is perinatal transmission of HIV?

Perinatal transmission of HIV is when HIV is passed from a person with HIV to their child during pregnancy, childbirth (also called labor and delivery), or breastfeeding/childfeeding (through breast milk). The use of HIV medicines, also known as antiretrovirals, and other strategies have helped to lower the rate of perinatal transmission of HIV to 1% or less in the United States and Europe.

How do HIV medicines prevent perinatal transmission of HIV?

HIV medicines, also known as antiretroviral therapy (ART), are used to treat HIV. Pregnant people with HIV should take HIV medicines as prescribed to reduce the risk of perinatal transmission of HIV. The earlier HIV medicines are started, the more effective they are at preventing perinatal transmission of HIV. People with HIV who are trying to conceive should make sure to start HIV medicines before they become pregnant and continue throughout pregnancy, childbirth, and breastfeeding to prevent perinatal transmission. HIV medicines also protect the birthing parent's health when taken at all times.

HIV medicines, when taken as prescribed, prevent HIV from multiplying and reduce viral load. An undetectable viral load is when the level of HIV in the blood is too low to be detected by a viral load test. The risk of perinatal transmission of HIV during pregnancy and childbirth is lowest when a person with HIV has an undetectable viral load. Having an undetectable viral load during pregnancy and throughout breastfeeding lowers the risk of perinatal transmission of HIV to less than 1%. Maintaining an undetectable viral load also helps keep the parent-to-be remain healthy throughout their life.

After birth, babies born to people with HIV receive medicines to reduce the risk of transmission of HIV. Several factors determine what medicines babies receive and how long they receive the medicines.

Are HIV medicines safe to use during pregnancy?

HIV medicines are safe to use during pregnancy. HIV medicines do not increase the risk of birth defects. Health care providers discuss the benefits and risks of specific HIV medicines when helping people with HIV decide which medicines to use during pregnancy or while they are trying to conceive. If an individual gets pregnant while on HIV medication, they should stay on that medication unless instructed to change by their health care provider.

How does HIV impact infant feeding options?

Pregnant people with HIV are encouraged to talk to their medical team about options for feeding their baby after birth. With consistent use of HIV medicine and an undetectable viral load during

Perinatal HIV Prevention – Infant Feeding

- 16% transmission via breastfeeding/chestfeeding without ART
- With ARVs: Original studies had suggested 1-5% but most did not include strict correlations with mother's viral load
- PROMISE study 2017: 0.3% and 0.6% transmission at 6 and 12 months postpartum = 3/1000 and 6/1000 at 6 and 12 months (n = 2431)
 - Achieving and maintaining viral suppression through ART during pregnancy and postpartum decreases breastfeeding/chestfeeding transmission risk to less than 1%, but not zero
 - The primary recommendation is now to support parental choice through shared decision making, not a specific infant feeding mode
 - Engaging Child Protective Services or similar agencies is not an appropriate response to the infant feeding choices of an individual with HIV
- From pre-ART era: Exclusive breastfeeding appears to have a lower risk than mixed feeding (alternating breastmilk and formula and/or solids)

How does HIV impact infant feeding options?

Pregnant people with HIV are encouraged to talk to their medical team about options for feeding their baby after birth. With consistent use of HIV medicine and an undetectable viral load during pregnancy and throughout breastfeeding/chestfeeding, the risk of transmission to a baby is extremely low: less than 1%, but not zero. Alternatively, properly prepared formula and pasteurized donor human milk from a milk bank are options that completely eliminate the risk of HIV transmission to a baby after birth.

Many new parents with HIV must consider several factors when deciding about infant feeding options after birth. Breastfeeding/chestfeeding has many health benefits for both parent and newborn. Cultural and emotional factors must also be considered. Pressure from family can be a big concern as are worries about unwanted disclosure of someone's HIV status if people question the reasons for using formula. The postpartum period is also a very exhausting experience and adherence to daily medication can be more challenging than usual. Pregnant people with HIV should speak with their health care provider to determine what method of feeding their baby is right for them.

Additionally, babies should not eat food that was pre-chewed by a person with HIV.

Are there other ways to prevent perinatal transmission of HIV?

In people who have a high HIV viral load (more than 1,000 copies/mL) or an unknown viral load near the time of delivery, a cesarean delivery (sometimes called a C-section) can reduce the risk of perinatal transmission. Special medications will also be used during labor and delivery.

AIDS Drug Assistance Program (ADAP)

ADAP offers co-pay assistance for HIV medications to uninsured or underinsured individuals with incomes between 138% and 500% of the Federal Poverty Level. It may also provide comprehensive medical, dental, and vision coverage, especially for self-employed or gig-economy workers. ADAP offers various programs, such as PrEP access, coverage for Medicare supplemental insurance, and employer-based support for high-cost insurance plans. The program ensures access to medications and encourages ongoing care and viral suppression. It is supported by the California Department of Public Health and provides same-day assistance to anyone, regardless of their client status.

El programa ADAP ofrece ayuda para el copago de medicamentos para el VIH a personas sin seguro o con seguro insuficiente con ingresos entre el 138% y el 500% del nivel federal de pobreza. También puede proporcionar cobertura médica, dental y de visión completa, especialmente para trabajadores independientes o de temporada. El ADAP ofrece varios programas, como acceso a PrEP, cobertura para el seguro complementario de Medicare y apoyo basado en el empleador para planes de seguro de alto costo. El programa garantiza el acceso a los medicamentos y fomenta el cuidado continuo y la supresión viral. Este programa cuenta con el apoyo del Departamento de Salud Pública de California y ofrece asistencia el mismo día a cualquier persona, independientemente del estado del cliente.

At NLSLA, we see the law as a powerful tool to fight for individual rights and social change. Our work aims to unravel entrenched disparities that have resulted from longstanding injustice, systemic racism and institutionalized inequality. NLSLA attorneys—based in offices, courthouses and clinics throughout the county—specialize in areas of the law that disproportionately impact low-income people, including affordable housing and eviction defense, access to public benefits, support for domestic violence victims, access to healthcare, worker and consumer rights, and employment and training.

En NLSLA, vemos la ley como una poderosa herramienta para luchar por los derechos individuales y el cambio social. Los abogados de NLSLA, con sede en oficinas, juzgados y clínicas en todo el condado, se especializan en áreas de la ley que afectan de manera desproporcionada a las personas de bajos ingresos, incluyendo la vivienda asequible y la defensa contra el desalojo, el acceso a los beneficios públicos, el apoyo a las víctimas de violencia doméstica, el acceso a la atención médica, los derechos de los trabajadores y los consumidores, y el empleo y la capacitación.

Support Groups

APLA HEALTH & WELLNESS

Bereavement Support Groups
611 S Kingsley Dr, Los Angeles, CA 90005

APLA Health offers several ongoing support groups, either virtually or in person, including for anyone newly diagnosed with HIV, for men who are age 50+ with HIV, as well as Life Skills support monthly for men and women with HIV. We plan to start a support group in 2024 for women with HIV.

NEWLY DIAGNOSED GROUP: Meets weekly on Thursdays, 7:00-8:30pm virtually and in-person. Facilitated by APLA Health's Brian Risley for 25 years, this long-running group has been a safe space to help men and women in their first two years of diagnosis reduce fear, stigma, receive peer support and get accurate medical information and life skills. For more information and to request the Zoom link, call Brian: 323-365-5600 or email: brisley@aplahealth.org

HIVE CONNECTIONS SUPPORT GROUP: Meets Mondays, 5:00-6:00pm on Zoom for men who have sex with men who are 50+ living with HIV. Share information, insights and life changes and get peer support.
