

People Privacy Policy

Last updated October 2021

This People Privacy Policy (Policy) explains how I-MED Radiology Network Limited (ABN 21 093 625 346) and its related wholly-owned companies (together, I-MED, we, us or our) handle and manage your personal information that we collect about you as:

- an applicant for a job vacancy/role or other employment position with us;
- an independent individual contractor applying for or accepted into a contractor role with us;
- an employee or subcontractor of a contractor providing services to us; or
- an individual, or representative of a supplier, who supplies goods or services to I-MED .

We are bound by and adhere to the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth) (Privacy Act) and the Australian Privacy Principles under that Privacy Act.

Application of this Policy

By submitting an application for a role as an employee or contractor or providing services to us as a contractor (or employee of a contractor) or otherwise providing us with any personal information, you agree that you are 16 years of age or older and consent to our collection, use, holding and disclosure of your personal information, including your sensitive information, in accordance with this Policy.

If you become an employee of I-MED, this Policy does not apply to any of the personal information that becomes part of your employee records to the extent it is held by us as your employer in relation to your employment. In that case we will handle and manage your employee records in accordance with the Privacy Act and other laws.

You do not have to provide us with personal information but, if you do not provide the information we request, we may not be able to consider you for the role for which you have applied, appoint you as a contractor or service provider or allow you to provide services or continue to provide services, to us as a contractor or employee or subcontractor of a contractor.

How we collect personal information

We collect your personal information when:

- you enter or upload it to our online careers portal (Portal) or your employee or personnel record in I-MED's internal personnel system (I-HUB);
- you provide it to us by phone, email, post, facsimile or in-person (whether as part of the recruitment / engagement process, or subsequently);
- it is provided to us by third party recruitment agencies, labour hire, contracting agencies or similar, human resources service providers (e.g. occupational health assessment services), police and law enforcement where necessary for background checks, LinkedIn and/or your nominated referees in your application; and/or
- we make internal notes in relation to any of the above.

If you provide us with another person's personal information (e.g. your referees, medical practitioners, emergency contacts, your employees or subcontractors or, as the employee or subcontractor of an I-MED contractor, your employer/principal), you must have obtained their prior consent: (i) for you do so; and (ii) to our collection, use, holding and disclosure of their personal information in accordance with this Policy.

What personal information we collect

The information we collect may include:

- your name, gender and contact details (e.g. phone number, residential address, email address);
- information about your education, qualifications and any professional registrations or licences that you hold, and copies of these;
- your employment history, resume/CV and your photograph;
- references and notes of our discussions with any referees;
- interview notes we make;
- results and copies of any police or background checks or statutory declarations in connection with such checks;
- medical information and supporting evidence or documents in a specified form (e.g. the results of any medical or drug/alcohol tests or health questionnaires (or similar) we request you to undertake, immunisation history, certificate(s) and/or status, serology results, details of any medical conditions which may lawfully exempt you from meeting any legal, policy or compliance requirements of which we advise you); and
- information about your duties and performance as a contractor or employee of a contractor.

If you are a job applicant or contractor (or employee or subcontractor of a contractor) and accept a role with us, we may also collect the following information from you:

- your emergency contact person's details;
- your bank, visa and work rights, and proof of identity details and copy of these; and
- superannuation and tax declaration forms.

If you are an individual who supplies, or are a representative of a supplier of, goods or services to I-MED, we will collect:

- your name and contact details;
- details of any credit or reference checks we undertake or which you provide to us;
- your bank or other relevant payment details; and
- where required by us, details of your COVID-19 vaccination status, including evidence of vaccination or exemption (in the form reasonably required by us).

We will retain your personal information for the duration of your time with us plus the period required by law.

Why we collect and how we use your personal information

We use the personal information we collect about you for the purposes of maintaining the records in the Portal, managing recruitment, managing contractors and their employees or subcontractors providing services to us, maintaining employee and personnel records in I-HUB, workplace safety and public health purposes, ensuring our compliance with obligations under law or contract, and providing services to our clients. This includes, for example, to:

- assess you as a candidate (whether for employment or a contract position) or your suitability as a service provider;
- shortlist candidates for roles and make contact to progress applications and provide updates;
- contact you in relation to your candidacy, application or engagement as a contractor, or for other future roles that may arise from time to time;
- respond to queries you may submit to us during the recruitment process or, as a subcontractor or employee of a contractor, during your time with us;
- conduct relevant identity verification;
- conduct police, background and/or medical checks and compliance clearances or verification, where required by us or permitted by law (including pursuant to our contractual obligations with other parties);

- if you are engaged as a contractor (or the employee or subcontractor of an I-MED contractor), manage our relationship with you and assess your performance during your time with us;
- respond to any complaints or disputes that may arise;
- for statistical analysis to help us improve the experience of using the Portal and undergoing the recruitment process or appointing of contractors so as to better serve you and other job applicants and contractors;
- assess your compliance with any of our policies;
- for our business purposes as required or permitted by law (including pursuant to our contractual obligations with other parties); and
- for purposes directly related to any of the above or to our provision of our services to patients and medical practitioners.

How we share your personal information

We may disclose your personal information to any referees nominated by you (e.g. in a resume/CV you upload to the Portal or otherwise provide to us) and/or our third party service providers as may be necessary to progress your application for employment or appointment as a contractor, manage the recruitment process, undertake police or background checks and/or to identify opportunities within I-MED for which you may be suitable and, for employees or subcontractors of I-MED contractors, with your employer/principal.

We may also disclose your personal information (including sensitive information) for workplace safety and public health purposes including to protect I-MED staff, patients and others from infection, and meet any relevant legal or contractual obligations. Outside of I-MED, this may include government authorities and public and private hospital facilities, where I-MED is a contracted service provider and you provide services to, or work at that location, for any period of time. Where possible, we will de-identify your personal information for the purposes of aggregated reporting.

We may also disclose the personal information of job applicants, contractors or employees or subcontractors of contractors to local and offshore service providers who we have engaged to provide various services to our business operations. When we engage those parties we take reasonable steps to ensure that they comply with privacy and confidentiality requirements.

In addition to the above, if you are an individual who supplies, or are a representative of a supplier of, goods or services to I-MED, we will use your personal information for our legitimate business and service dealings with you, and to assess your compliance with any of our applicable policies which relate to workplace safety and public health purposes.

Accessing and/or updating your personal information

We ask that you advise us whenever your personal information changes (e.g. you get a new phone number or move to a new address) using Our contact information below. You can also update some of your personal information by logging into your account on the Portal.

You have the right to request access to your personal information at any time by contacting us, including for the purpose of asking us to correct or update that information. There is no charge for making such a request but we may charge a reasonable fee for responding to a request. We will respond to your request within 30 days of receiving it. If we cannot fulfil your request for any reason, we will write back to you and explain why.

Security of personal information

Unfortunately, no data transmission over the Internet or by email can be guaranteed to be 100% secure. As a result, while we take reasonable steps to protect your personal information, including the use of encryption of data in transit, the nature of the Internet and email is such that we cannot guarantee or warrant the security of any information you transmit via the Internet or by email.

We also have reasonable security controls in place to protect your personal information once it reaches us (i.e. is stored on the Portal and our internal information systems) including encryption of data at rest.

Changes to this Policy

We may, from time to time, update this Policy so please ensure you review it periodically for changes. If any changes are significant or substantial we will post a message to that effect on any or all of the Portal, I-HUB, I-MED's internal intranet, and the I-MED website.

Your continued use of the Portal or I-HUB, and the provision by you of further personal information or services to us after this Policy has been revised will be deemed to be your acceptance of and consent to the revised Policy.

Complaints

If you wish to complain about how we have handled your personal information, please send your complaint to the I-MED Privacy Officer at the address below. Alternatively, you can complete a Privacy Complaint Form here.

The complaint will be investigated and a response will be sent to you as quickly as possible (generally within 30 days of receipt of the complaint).

If you are not satisfied with our response, you can contact the Office of the Australian Information Commissioner (OAIC) whose contact details can be obtained at www.oaic.gov.au.
