

Juan Escala, DVM, Distinguished Research Scientist

Juan is a veterinarian with experience in general practice, government, and the animal health industry. Prior to joining Elanco in 2011, he worked as a veterinary assessor at the Veterinary Medicines Directorate, regulatory affairs manager in an animal health company, and ran a CRO in Scotland, where he was also commercial director of a research institute with responsibility for the identification, development and commercialisation of their intellectual property and technologies. At Elanco he has worked in vaccine R&D, business development and external innovation. Juan's motivation is to help make innovative solutions for animals and their owners a reality.
