Shaping the Future of Fashion

Suzy Menkes, Karolina Kurková & Karina Dobrotvorskaya joined Vogue CS for the first VOGUE LIVE fashion and luxury conference in Prague

V24 Media, the publisher of Vogue Czech Republic & Slovakia hosted VOGUE LIVE: Shaping the Future of Fashion on May 31 at the Mandarin Oriental in Prague. VOGUE LIVE is the first event of its kind, a conference for the leading fashion and luxury industry executives in the Czech Republic and Slovakia. The event gave its participants unprecedented access to world-renowned fashion authorities as they shared their global vision and reflected upon industry trends and challenges through a series of discussions and presentations.

Michaela Seewald, owner and director of V24 Media, says:

“V24 Media created VOGUE LIVE as a completely unique event where fashion industry experts, our business partners and international celebrities can meet. We are excited to share this distinctive Vogue experience with everyone as they hear about the latest innovations in the fashion and luxury segment from the foremost authorities of these fields”

VOGUE LIVE: Shaping the Future of Fashion started with Suzy Menkes, Editor, Vogue International, speaking about the key trends and changes in the fashion and luxury industry. Followed by Karina Dobrotvorskaya, Executive Director, Editorial Development, Conde Nast International, talking about the future of print magazines including its challenges and innovations. The event concluded with supermodel Karolina Kurková discussing her 20 years at the top of the fashion industry with Andrea Běhouňková, Editor-in-Chief of Vogue CS.

The presentations were immediately followed by a beautiful lunch in the sunny courtyard of the Mandarin Oriental Prague in the heart of historic Malá Strana.

Vogue CS would like to thank the event sponsors De’Longhi, Gismondi, Guerlain, Land Rover, Mandarin Oriental Prague, as well as other partners Bibelot, Ligne Roset, Moser, Pigmentarium, and Samsung.
