Hilton Head Island, on the southern coast of South Carolina, is filled with beautiful ocean views, antebellum relics, beds of oysters, and Southern charm. Everything about the island speaks of posh sophistication with a laid back attitude. Out on the ocean waters you can see trawlers and other boats. In the canals and inlets, yachts are frequently floating and enjoying the sunny weather. Golf courses designed by some of the sport's finest players abound, as do alligators sunning themselves in sand traps and small ponds.

THE CITY

Alexphoto/Shutterstock.com

To describe Hilton Head Island, as a city is an understatement. Across the island, many small bays, golf courses, restaurants and shops create small towns of their own, usually with the ocean as a centerpiece. From Sea Pines and Harbourtown to the Atlantic Ocean, Hilton Head Island blooms with wildlife, flowers, trees, Spanish moss, boats, oyster beds, historic sites, and people. Whether you drive in from Savannah, or down from Charleston, or fly into their local airport, Hilton Head Island is a delightful area full of attractions for people of all ages and interests: golfing, biking riding, sunning on the beach, watching dolphins, boating, fishing, horseback riding, and visiting historic locations are just some of the many things you can do on your vacation to this island.
