THE CITY

Ayuntamiento de Bornos

Bornos is an Andalusian town that sits at the feet of the Fontanar fortress, with views of the Guadalete River and the Bornos water reservoir. The town is located at the 44th km of the A-382. About 10 km northeast of the main population centre you'll find the charming plaza and streets of Coto de Bornos, which originally was a farm of settlers. Ideal for slowing down and staying in the moment, Bornos opens its doors to the visitor and offers important artistic heritage gorgeous nature and fantastic food.

DO & SEE

Ayuntamiento de Bornos

Bornos' extensive cultural heritage dates back to Prehistoric times, but most of the town's monuments are from the Renaissance period. The Guadalete River offers visitors an opportunity to try numerous water sports, while the surrounding mountains attract hikers from near and far. Try traditional cuisine in authentic local restaurants or visit during Carnival or Easter to experience the culture of Andalusia.

Gardens at the Ribera Palace

The 16th century Renaissance garden of the Ribera Palace embraces an Italian style little-found in Andalusia. Geometric shape, terraces, and pruned plants nod to the Roman tradition. Discover statues and grottoes tucked away in the expansive grounds. Native flora include Laurel, Rosemary, Ivy, Myrtle, Cypress, and Night jasmine.

The Loggia – Unique in Spain

The Loggia is a gallery or succession of arches.

Originally a private museum for entertaining the Ribas family guests, these grounds are dotted with statues and objects of historical interest.

This is the only Loggia in Pompeian style in Spain, and pays homage to the Ribas' cultural and artistic influence on the local region.

Parish Church of Santo Domingo de Guzman

This church features two distinct architectural styles: Gothic and Baroque. Estimated to date from the late 15th or early 16th century, the most valuable piece of this church is the stone situated in the facade — this is dedicated to the holy martyrs buried here.

The interior is full of artistic treasures such as The Main Baroque Altarpiece, baroque sculptures representing the Immaculate Conception, and a 17th century wood carving attributed to La Roldana.

Casa Ordoñez

This noble Baroque building dates from the second half of the 17th century. The facade has a large doorway framed between two Tuscan Order pilasters of fluted shaft and sober entablature. Both the entrance and the coats of arms are carved in pink marbled stone.

The different spaces and chambers are organized around a main courtyard with upper gallery; at ground level we find a first body of arches resting on Tuscan marble columns, the upper level is a gallery of rectangular balconies. There is also an additional yard, simpler, with a gallery of arches at ground level on one side and on the upper level of the other side a landscape-observation gallery crowned by cubical body battlements with pyramidal tops. The structure's load-bearing walls are made of rammed earth and slab with fully treated and restored wooden beams for its floors and ceilings.

Corpus Christi Convent

Don Per Afan de Ribera, first Duke of Alcalá, Marquis of Tarifa, sponsored the construction of this convent in the late 16th century. Occupied by nuns of the Cistercian order and later Clarissian nuns of the Franciscan Order.

The building itself consists on two floors, with an arcaded courtyard of semicircular arches on the ground floor. The entire structure is built in stone and brick. In addition, it has a beautiful staircase with a superb carved stone balustrade and a domed ceiling with a magnificent decoration.

The Arch Mill

This mill is one of at least 10 hydraulic constructions erected along the "Ribera de los Molinos" (The Mills Riverbank) in the 16th century. This building, popularly known as The Wide Mill, is one of the best preserved sections of this waterway and offers visitors a chance to learn about its architecture and history.

Carnival

The Carnival is a lively party at which everyone is welcome. Attendees typically don disguises and masks, and the streets fill with groups of chirigotas, comparsas, or a special type of murga that is indigenous to Bornos.

Two weeks before the party, the Peña Carnavalesca de Bornos organizes the "Morcillá Popular". Beer and blood sausage can be tasted for free while the groups participating in the party present their songs. A provincial contest is held every year in the auditorium of the Corpus Christi Convent. Groups from the whole area participate. In any act of the contest you can enjoy an atmosphere of genius and magic.

Carnival takes place on the second weekend in the so-called Domingo de Piñata. A parade and costume contest mark the day.

Traditional festivals

Visit Bornos in September to experience a local festival — La Feria Real. The remote origin of the fair, like most Andalusian fairs, is found in the 12th and 13th centuries and is tied to the economic and agricultural cycles of the region. The first part of the festival takes place in April and June and the celebrations are picked up again in August and September, during the heaviest harvest season and right after its end. Enjoy the traditional atmosphere, excellent food, refreshing wine from the Jerez area, dancing, singing and even equestrian events.

Casa El Pengue

Casa "Pengue" is a restaurant founded in 1972 and located on Avda. De la Constitución, 7 de Bornos. In it you can enjoy the cuisine of Cadiz since we have a letter focused on products from our province.

Our restaurant offers a wide variety of fish and seafood from our coast, such as snapper, sea bass, corvina, our fried fish, tuna (seasonal) prepared in different ways and seafood such as shrimp Sanlucar, White prawn, Norway lobster or carabinero.

We also offer meat from our sierra and from the bull route, such as the payoyo kid or the retinto veal, without forgetting stews such as oxtail or our Iberian pig.

In season we prepare typical dishes such as "Abajao", fresh beans or "Berza".

To sweeten the food a little we have a range of three or four homemade desserts that we vary, such as the biscuit drunk with almonds and bacon cover sky.

And finally we have a large cellar with which to accompany your meals.

Terrace service and two rooms.
