Why choose EAL for Rail?

EAL is an Awarding Organisation with specialist expertise and subject matter experts in the design and delivery of competence-based qualifications. EAL has a well-established portfolio of Rail Engineering qualifications, developed in collaboration with employers, professional bodies, and training providers. These qualifications cover key disciplines including track installation and maintenance, signalling, telecoms, electrification, and traction and rolling stock.

EAL qualifications are designed to reflect real railway job functions and operational environments, ensuring learners develop the necessary practical skills, technical knowledge, and behaviours required to work safely and efficiently within the rail industry. They are aligned to National Occupational Standards (NOS) and workforce competency frameworks, supporting both entry into the industry and upskilling of existing rail professionals.
