Teacher Starting Pay and Hiring Schedules

The median starting salary for a new teacher is $$ 47,388$, up 1.8 percent from last year. Teacher pay in small and rural districts is generally lower than large and urban districts. Participation for districts with fewer than 1,000 students is similar to last year (177 this year compared to 180 last year).

In districts with 10,000 or more students, the median starting salary is $59,000 - a 3.4 percent increase from last year. Of 543 responding districts, 50 percent have an entry-level salary of $$ 47,400$ or greater, and these districts employ 91 percent of teachers among the respondents. The highest reported entry salary is $$ 65,000$, and the five districts reporting the highest starting salaries are all in ESC Region 4.

This year's median starting salary is 40.8 percent higher than the state minimum starting salary of $$ 33,660$. Only 22 responding districts, employing 714 total teachers, reported paying teachers the state minimum for all benchmark years listed below as determined in the State Minimum Salary Schedule.

Teacher Shortage Stipends

Of 543 responding districts, 90 percent pay shortage stipends to teachers in at least one identified shortage area.

The high needs special education stipend is the most common stipend reported with nearly 68 percent of responding districts reporting it, and a median value of $$ 2,500$ (an increase of $$ 500$ compared to last year). Mathematics is the second most frequently reported shortage stipend, with 62 percent of responding districts paying the stipend. The median math stipend is $$ 3,000$, same as last year. The median science stipend is $$ 3,000$, also matching last year. While math, special education, and science stipends are the most frequently paid, bilingual education stipends are the highest value again this year. The median bilingual stipend is $$ 4,000$, which is the same as the median value last year.

Teacher Degree and Leadership Stipends

Over 83 percent of responding districts (452) pay more to teachers with master's degrees, typically as a stipend. Most pay extra for any type of master's degree - for example, whether it is in educational administration, math, or a field unrelated to teaching. Fewer limit the incentive to only those teachers with a master's degree in their assigned teaching field ( 20 districts) or pay a higher stipend to those teachers ( 35 districts).

The median stipend for a general master's degree (any area of study) is $$ 1,000$, identical to the past five years, and the median stipend for a master's degree in the teaching subject-area is $$ 2,000$, also same as last year.

Districts also reported stipends paid for various campus leadership roles such as department chairs and mentor teachers. More than half of responding districts pay a stipend for high school department chair and middle school department chair.

Substitute Teacher Pay Rates

Daily rates for non-degreed and long-term teacher substitutes increased by $$ 5$ compared to last year. The shortterm degreed and degreed-certified substitute rates remain the same as the previous year. These changes likely reflect district needs for a more robust pool of both short-term and long-term substitutes.

Description of Survey

The survey is a compilation of salary information for classroom teachers collected by TASB HR Services during the fall of the 2023-2024 school year. The survey questionnaire was sent to 1,019 Texas public school districts as part of the annual salary survey. Survey data collected covers teacher salaries, hiring schedules, degree stipends, shortage stipends, substitute teacher pay rates, and teacher pay increases. The data in this report are provided to help districts recruit, retain, and reward teachers through the development of competitive compensation plans.

Survey Methodology

Standard statistical and mathematical calculations were used in compiling and analyzing the data. Survey results are presented by enrollment group and by ESC region. Not all respondents answered every question in the survey. Therefore, table totals may not equal total respondents. Median is used as a summary value throughout this report. It is the middle value of a given range of data, also called the 50th percentile; half of the reported values are at or below this value. Median is used when there may be wide variations in values, which would skew average values.
