NONDISCLOSURE AGREEMENT SEEN AT THE TEST SITE

ABOUT THE NONDISCLOSURE AGREEMENT AT THE TEST CENTER

At the test center, all candidates taking an ARRT-administered exam see a nondisclosure agreement (NDA), which indicates that the exam is confidential and candidates are not allowed to share any of the questions or answer options with anyone. The full text of the NDA, which appears after the tutorial and before the exam, can be found below and in all handbooks.

IMPORTANT: Candidates have two minutes to respond to the NDA or their exam will end.

Candidates must respond by clicking either “A” to accept the agreement and continue with the exam, or “N” to indicate that they don’t accept the agreement. If a candidate does not accept the NDA – either by allowing the two minutes to expire or by selecting “N” — the exam will end and the candidate will need to submit a reapplication form and fee to take it at a later date.

In order to avoid timing out, candidates should avoid writing on the note board provided to them until after having responded to the NDA. The written instructions provided during candidate check-in at the test center include a reminder about responding to the NDA first. The instructions state: “Before I enter the testing room, the testing administrator will provide me with an erasable note board, a marker and any other items specified by the ARRT. I will not use these materials until after I have responded to the NDA.”
