Information we collect on our sites

This section describes information that individuals might choose to provide to us, as well as our practices for the automatic collection and use of certain information related to the use and navigation of our Sites.

Information you provide

We define Personal Information as information that can (directly or indirectly) identify, locate, or be used to contact you or communicate with you, such as your name, address, telephone number, e-mail address, characteristics, or descriptions (such as gender and date of birth), and other similar and associated information (“Personal Information”). Personal Information includes certain subsets of Personal Information that are considered “sensitive” pursuant to applicable laws, such as information about health or medical status, and healthcare products used or services received (“Sensitive Personal Information”).

In most cases, we collect Personal Information directly from you. We will ask you for Personal Information, for example, when you interact with us, such as registering on our Sites, using any interactive features or applications, signing up to receive a newsletter, or, a patient who has received one of Edwards Lifesciences’ products may choose to share his or her experiences with us; a person seeking employment may choose to apply for a job online or request additional information about job opportunities; a health care professional might ask that we send information about one or more of our products. Before providing Sensitive Personal Information to us, we urge you to carefully consider whether to disclose it. If you do provide Sensitive Personal Information to us, you are consenting to its use and disclosure for the purposes and in the manner described at the time of collection and as set forth in this Privacy Statement.

Information we collect automatically

Additionally, through your use of the Sites, we collect information related to your use by automated means, such as the date and time of your website sessions, movements across our Sites, and the browser information and operating system you use and other system settings, as well as the language your system uses and the country, region, and time zone where your device is located (collectively, “Usage Data”). Usage Data also includes the IP Address of the device you use to connect to the Internet that is collected by our Site server logs. An IP address is a unique identifier that devices use to identify and communicate with each other on the Internet. In certain circumstances, where we link Usage Data and Personal Information, Usage Data may be considered Personal Information. Usage Data may also allow us to identify the country you are visiting from, so that we may direct you automatically to the content that is appropriate for your country.

Digital Advertising, Cookies and Other Data Collection Technologies

When you use our Sites, we collect different types of Usage Data by automated means, using technologies such as APIs, web services, scripts, cookies, pixels, tags, web beacons, browser analysis tools, and server logs. Using these technologies, we may also collect data about the website you were visiting before you came to our Site, and the website you visit after you leave our Site. We may also use vendors, such as Adobe and Google, to place cookies and collect data to enable certain services we use, including advertising, visitor tracking, personalization, site analytics and security services, including reCAPTCHA, and the data may be disclosed to our vendors for these purposes.

Other data may be disclosed to vendors providing additional services integrated into our Sites, including performance monitoring, user experience components such as user interface frameworks, images and web fonts, maps, and ecommerce functionality. When we send email communications, we may place a web beacon or similar tracking technology in the email to know whether your device is capable of receiving HTML emails, or to collect data on whether the email or an attachment or link in the email has been opened or forwarded.

When you use our Sites, we may place cookies on your computer. Cookies are small text files that websites or mobile apps send to your computer or other Internet-connected device to uniquely identify your browser or to store data or settings in your browser. Cookies allow us to recognize you when you return. They also help us provide a customized experience and enable us to detect certain kinds of fraud. Some of our Sites may use Web Storage instead of cookies.

We use cookies from third-party advertising companies that may place an advertising tag on your web browser. The advertising tag allows third-parties to serve our ads to you on other websites and digital services. These companies may use information obtained from cookies and other data collection tools in order to measure advertising effectiveness and to provide advertisements of interest to you on these other websites. You can opt-out of receiving targeted advertising by clicking on the “Do Not Sell or Share My Personal Information” link in the website footer.

You can also opt-out of receiving targeted advertising from Network Advertisers by clicking the “Ad Options” icon on the advertisements or by going to www.networkadvertising.org. In addition, the Digital Advertising Alliance maintains a web site where consumers can opt out from receiving interest-based advertising from some or all of the network advertising companies participating in the program (www.AboutAds.info/choices).

In many cases, the data we collect using cookies and other tools is only used in a non-identifiable way, without any reference to Personal Information. However, under some privacy and data protection laws, this data could be considered Personal Information. This Privacy Statement governs how we use this data when it is considered your Personal Information.

Information we collect outside the sites

We recognize that we might receive Personal Information in ways other than through our Sites. We collect information about our customers and potential customers for the purposes of providing our products and services – such as contact information, financial/billing information, and any other information that is provided to us during the course of doing business. For example, many physicians notify us when a specific valve has been implanted, so that we can maintain a database of the patient that received a valve with a specific serial number. Physicians also notify us of complaints or adverse events with our products. Job applicants may submit paper applications. We maintain records of purchases by our physician customers and their attendance at educational and other events we host.

We also collect information from our vendors, suppliers, consultants, professional advisors, and other third parties for the purposes of managing and operating our business. For example, we will collect business contact information, financial information, and other information necessary to engage our suppliers and other business partners and to evaluate their performance.

Personal Information is given the same protection by us, whether we receive it through a website or by other means. The descriptions below apply to Personal Information collected or received by us, no matter how the information was received.

How we use the information we collect

Edwards Lifesciences may use your Personal Information for its business, operational, and legal purposes, including:

- To respond to your specific inquiry or request, and to provide you with information and access to resources that you have requested from us;
- To provide, operate, and maintain the Sites;
- To improve the navigation and content of our Sites, system administration, and security;
- To provide you with general health information (such as information on certain health conditions) as well as information about our products and services;
- To provide you with marketing communications and offers for products and services and to deliver advertising (including targeted advertising) to you on this and other websites;
- To process and complete transactions;
- To manage our customer relationships, including to respond to inquiries and comments and providing customer service and support;
- To provide our products and services;
- To create anonymized or de-identified data so that it is no longer Personal Information;
- To carry out research and development to improve our products and services;
- To assess financial, credit or insurance risks arising from any relationship or prospective relationship with a customer, supplier, distributor, or business partner; or
- To carry out other legitimate business purposes, and other purposes about which we will notify our users and customers.

We will give you an opportunity to tell us whether we may use your Personal Information to send you other information about Edwards Lifesciences' products, activities, or opportunities. In most circumstances, you will be able to "unsubscribe" from these communications by following the instructions provided at the time you sign up for the communications or that are included in such communications.

We may use the Usage Data we and our partners collect during your future visits. This information allows us to direct you to specific content on the Sites that may be of interest and to remember your computer/device the next time you visit. If you visit multiple Edwards Lifesciences Sites, we may aggregate the Usage Data from your visits to better understand usage of our Sites.

Disclosure of information to third parties

While we do not directly sell, rent, or loan your Personal Information, we may share your information with companies, organizations and individuals outside of Edwards Lifesciences as described below. Please note that certain state laws have adopted a broad definition of a "sale" and may treat certain of these disclosures as "sales" under their definitions. Please see the "Supplemental U.S. Privacy Policy." for additional information.

We may share your Personal Information with Edwards Lifesciences' affiliates, with our business collaborators, and our product co-promotion and co-development partners, marketing and advertising agencies, and social media companies and platforms for the purposes set forth above and elsewhere in this Privacy Statement.

We may share Personal Information with our service providers, who are bound by law or contract to protect Personal Information and only use Personal Information in accordance with our instructions or the agreements we have signed. For example, we may share Personal Information with service providers who provide data processing or fulfillment services for us.

We may disclose Personal Information for legal and law enforcement purposes. This includes in response to legal process, for example, in response to a court order or a subpoena, or in response to a law enforcement agency's request. We also may disclose such information to third parties: (i) in connection with fraud prevention activities, (ii) where we believe it is necessary to investigate, prevent, or take action regarding illegal activities, (iii) in situations that may involve violations of our terms of use or other rules, (iv) to protect our rights and the rights and safety of others, (v) as needed to support external auditing, compliance and corporate governance functions, and (vi) as otherwise required by law.

We may also disclose your Personal Information to a third party in connection with the sale, assignment, or other transfer of an Edwards Lifesciences' asset(s), which may include associated Sites to which the information relates. We will try to assure that no Personal Information that is transferred will be used or shared in a manner inconsistent with this Privacy Statement without your consent. However, in the event of a sale or merger, your continued use of this Site signifies your agreement to be bound by the Privacy Statement and other applicable terms of the subsequent owner or operator.

Please note that we may also disclose data about you that is not personally identifiable. For example, we may publish reports that contain aggregate and statistical data about our customers.

How we protect information

Consistent with applicable laws and requirements, we have put in place reasonable physical, technical, and administrative safeguards designed to protect Personal Information from loss, misuse, alteration, theft, unauthorized access, and unauthorized disclosure consistent with legal obligations and industry practices. However, as is the case with all websites, applications, products, and services, we unfortunately are not able to guarantee security for data collected through our Products and Services.

We are not responsible for any interception or interruption of any communications or for changes to or losses of data through the internet. Users of the Sites are responsible for maintaining the security of any password, user ID, or other form of authentication involved in obtaining access to password protected or secure areas of the Sites. It is your responsibility to safeguard any passwords, ID numbers, or similar individual information associated with your use of the Products and Services. Any access to the Sites through your user ID and password will be treated as authorized by you. If we believe it is necessary or advisable to help protect your Personal Information and/or the integrity of the Sites, we may suspend your use of all or part of the Sites, without notice.

Unauthorized access to any of the Sites is prohibited and may lead to criminal prosecution.

How long we retain personal information

We retain information as long as it is necessary and relevant for our business, operational, and legal purposes. In addition, we retain Personal Information to comply with applicable law, prevent fraud, resolve disputes, troubleshoot problems, assist with any investigation, enforce our Terms of Service, and other actions permitted by law. When your Personal Information is no longer needed for Edwards Lifesciences' business, operational, and legal purposes, we dispose of it subject to applicable law. Whenever possible, we aim to de-identify the information or otherwise remove some or all information that may identify you from records that we may need to keep for periods beyond the specified retention period.

Your privacy choices

In your use of the Sites, you will be given opportunities to make choices about the data we receive and how we use it.

Do Not Track signals and Global Privacy Control. Certain web browsers and other programs may transmit “do-not-track” “opt-out” signals, also called a Global Privacy Control (or GPC) signal (we refer to these as “GPC Signals”), to websites with which the browser communicates. In most cases you will need to change your web browser's settings or add an application to your web browser to enable your browser to send a GPC Signal. Our websites will recognize GPC Signals for website users differently, based on the location of the user when they access our websites. For users that access our websites from U.S. states that have laws requiring recognition of GPC Signals, we will recognize and apply the GPC Signal to inactivate all of the cookies for that website, except for cookies that are necessary for the website to operate (“Essential Cookies”). Additionally, if you are accessing our websites from one of these states, you can determine if your browser GPC Signal has been recognized by clicking on the “Do Not Sell or Share My Personal Information” link in the footer of the website and checking that appropriate cookies have been turned off. For users from states not currently requiring recognition of the GPC Signal, our website servers may recognize and apply the GPC Signal for only advertising and social media cookies, but will not apply the GPC Signal to functional or performance cookies. You can always check and adjust your cookie settings by going to the “Do Not Sell or Share My Personal Information” link in the footer of this website.

Some web browsers incorporate other "do-not-track" ("DNT") or similar features that signals to websites with which the browser communicates that a visitor does not want to have their online activity tracked. As of the Effective Date, not all browsers offer a DNT option and DNT signals are not yet uniform. For this reason, Edwards Lifesciences Sites along with many other digital service operators do not respond to all DNT signals. We recognize GPC signals as required under certain state privacy laws, but we do not currently recognize other DNT signals. For more information about the Global Privacy Control, please visit <https://globalprivacycontrol.org>.

Opting out of communications. If you provide Personal Information to us, we may from time to time send you communications, including electronic communications about products or services. You may unsubscribe to such communications by following the instructions in any communication we send you or, in most cases, by completing this form.

Cookies. Your Web browser settings allow you to change your cookie settings. Please be aware that the Site functions may not work well if you choose to reject some cookies. You also have the options described above in the Digital Advertising, Cookies and Other Data Collection Technologies section of this Privacy Statement.

Data privacy rights - residents of U.S. states with privacy laws. Residents of U.S. states with comprehensive privacy laws, including California and Virginia Consumers, should visit the Supplemental California Privacy Policy for more information regarding privacy rights and the designated methods for making data subject rights requests under their respective state laws.

Children's privacy

Edwards Lifesciences does not intend to collect Personal Information from children under age 13, without consent from the child's parent or legal guardian. We do not share Personal Information of anyone under 13 years of age with anyone outside of Edwards (except where required by law, and to our agents who have committed to maintain data privacy).

If you believe that your child has submitted Personal Information and you would like to request that their information be removed from our systems, please complete this form. We will make reasonable efforts to comply with your request.

Supplemental U.S. Privacy Policy

This Supplemental U.S. Privacy Policy ("U.S. Policy") section supplements this Privacy Statement and addresses legal obligations and rights arising from U.S. state privacy laws, including those in California and Virginia—respectively, the California Consumer Privacy Act ("CCPA"), which includes amendments and implementing regulations under the California Privacy Rights Act ("CPRA"), and the Virginia Consumer Data Protection Act ("VCDPA"). This Supplemental U.S. Privacy Policy only applies to residents of those states.
