Help us create a better, brighter future at the heart of one of Washington’s most inclusive universities.

At WWU, you’ll get all the benefits of a small college, with individualized attention and small class sizes – but with all the choice and opportunity a large university can offer, at a relatively low cost.

Our Global Pathway Program (GPP) provides a combination of academic and English learning courses to those who are academically qualified, but need to enhance their English proficiency.

Students in the Global Pathway Program can earn up to 20 credits that count toward their undergraduate degree requirements. Students who already meet the entry requirements may apply for direct admission to an undergraduate or graduate degree program.
