One July, when the sun was high,
The ladybird took to the clear blue sky.
She spread her wings in the summer breeze
And flew over farms and fields and trees.
She flew and she flew, as fast as could be
Till at last she came to the deep salt sea.

And the sea lion roared and
the seagull shrieked,

The mermaid sang and the dolphin squeaked.

The crab went SNAP and the shark went GNASH.

The whale's grey tail made a mighty SPLASH.

The dogfish barked and the catfish purred,
But the ladybird said never a word.

But the ladybird saw, and the ladybird heard ...

She saw two men in a camper van,
With swimming trunks and a cunning plan.
(They were Hefty Hugh and Lanky Len,
Up to their wicked ways again.)

Said Lanky Len to Hefty Hugh,
"I tell you what we're going to do.
We'll lie in wait till it's twelve o'clock,
Then out we'll swim to the mermaid's rock.
The mermaid's hair is very long.
She combs it while she sings her song,
But when it's night and she's fast asleep,
Then – tiptoe – onto her rock we'll creep
And – snip snip snip! We'll cut that hair,
So very long and very fair."

The dumpbin is yellow and look similar to this one.

Out with the dentures, out with the light.
Old Farmer Clegg was tucked up for the night.
The farm was all quiet. No sound could be heard.
Nothing was stirring. Not even a bird.

But wait ... what's that whispering?
That grunting and snuffling?
Up there by the sheep field -
What's shifting and shuffling?

"Quick!" bleated Woolworth, the sheep on the gate.
"The show starts at midnight! Roll up! Don't be late!
We've got some top talent lined up on the show.
Who'll be the winner tonight? We'll soon know!"

Constance IN PERIL

Constance in Peril

Ben Manley

Constance in Peril is a brilliantly funny story from the creators of the critically acclaimed The Misadventures of Frederick, a Sunday Times Children's Book of the Year. Told with all Ben Manley's characteristic wit and genius for comic timing, with beautiful, atmospheric illustrations by Emma Chichester Clark adding to the fun.

Edward's favourite toy was a soft, old, cloth doll. Her name was Constance Hardpenny and she had led a tragic life.

Having been rescued from a rubbish bin by a boy called Edward, Constance suffers a series of potentially catastrophic incidents. More suited to elegant tea parties in a bygone age, she nevertheless remains stoic throughout. From being forgotten and left out in the rain or trapped up a tree, even being caught between the jaws of the neighbour's dog, Constance is constantly finding herself in mortal danger. Although she's luckily rescued each time by the watchful Grace, Edward's loving older sister, it seems disaster is never far behind.

Is Constance doomed to suffer a life of never-ending peril? Probably.
