The Clarion Call for the 2021 meetings suggests that, "seeking to help managers deal with the issues confronting them would be a valuable contribution to the world we live in." In response to this challenge, this PDW will discuss strategies for mitigating the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on issues of diversity, equity and inclusion in organizations. The outbreak of COVID-19 last year is noted for the global economic toll

Visiting Professor to the University of Suffolk, Dr Sylvia van de Bunt leads a discussion on the dilemmas of modern leadership.

About this event

This seminar will enable those in challenging leadership and management roles to come together and discuss approaches that may help them individually as well as their wider organisations. It will highlight the value of listening to ideas from important thinkers from all cultures and backgrounds. It's perhaps fitting that this seminar takes place now, as the Power of Stories exhibition at Christchurch Mansion in Ipswich draws to a close. This exhibition has been a collaborative project, bringing together iconic costumes from the Marvel Film, Black Panther, alongside stories that are important to the local community.

“We Shall Overcome – leadership in times of crisis”

Dr Sylvia van de Bunt, Associate Professor, Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam, Visiting Professor, University of Suffolk

In 1965, Rev Martin Luther King Jr received an honorary doctorate from the Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam honouring his service in the fight for social justice and human rights. King’s approach, exemplifying the servant-leadership style is more relevant than ever before.

In this seminar, Dr van de Bunt will explore modern crises in a historical perspective through the eyes of dr. King: the covid-pandemic, global warming, human rights, and institutional racism. She will highlight the ongoing legacy of Dr King’s social justice ideals relevant for reaching the current UN Sustainable Development Goals. Attendees will be shown the impact that serving can have on sustainable leadership, bridging cultural divides and supporting others to unlock their potential. In the words of Dr King “everybody can be great...because anybody can serve.”

MLK Exercise:

Give three (3) concrete, out-of-your-comfort-zone actions that you are committed to, taking on the Megatrend '(anti-)racism movements' to advance the hopes expressed in MLK's "I have a dream" speech.

Applying for a job without name or nationality being mentioned. This from the reason that people get rejected purely because of their name or background.

Protesting for anti-racial movements: Influence people by making your opinion clear to everyone.

Speaking up when friends/relatives: Being able to speak out when racist jokes or talk is being said. This to create awareness of what is happening.

THE LIFE OF PEACE APOSTLE HARCOURT KLINEFELTER

HARCOURT KLINEFELTER
foreword by ANDREW J. YOUNG

"This inspiring book tells the remarkable story of Rev. Harky Klinefelter, one of the world's leading nonviolent educators, who also served as a courageous and dedicated staff member of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, working closely with my father, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. The Life of Peace Apostle Harkourt Klinefelter: Globalizing the Dream of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. provides an important contribution to the history of the movement, an invaluable resource for learning about the civil rights movement from an insider perspective and for exploring creative ways to build diverse nonviolent movements for social and economic justice in the future."

—MARTIN LUTHER KING III

"Nonviolence liberates, if you work with others. The convincing proof of this reality is found in real life of real communities in real conflicts. And it is best witnessed in biographies of individuals, whose faith provided the calling, the courage, and the spiritual resources to walk such a way of life. Rev. Harkourt Klinefelter is a most telling and encouraging example."
